I'm Living Life My Way

I've always done things my way.
Forged my own path. Never been one to follow along with the crowd. And that's exactly how I'm going to keep living my life.
So I've made plans for the future.
I know I'll probably need help someday,
but it's going to be on my terms.
That's why I purchased a long-term care insurance policy.

I'm not going anywhere. This is my home, and it's where I belong.

There are a lot of happy memories in this house. It's where my kids grew up. And it's where they'll keep coming for family dinners and holiday get-togethers. I'm comfortable here. I've got my garden, my books, my friends. My home is the center of my life, and my long-term care insurance policy will help me get the care I need right here.

My kids shouldn't have to take care of me.

The last thing I want is to become a burden to my kids. They have families and lives of their own now. They shouldn't have to worry about me. Besides, I want our time together to be enjoyable. I know they care about me. I just don't want them to have to care for me. That's one reason I bought a long-term care insurance policy. So we can spend quality time together.

I've always made my own decisions, and that's not going to change.

My independence is important. I don't want someone else making decisions for me. What kind of care I need or where I'm going to live. I'm the one who knows what's best for me. So, I've taken care of everything. Made plans in advance. I bought a long-term care insurance policy that will help me live life my way.

I'm not willing to risk my retirement savings.

I've worked hard to build a comfortable life. And I know that if I had to pay for long-term care services using my savings, it could cost me everything. I'm not willing to let that happen. So I'm doing the smart thing. Helping to protect my retirement savings with a long-term care insurance policy. And that's helping me relax so I can live life the way I always planned.

It's important for me to leave an inheritance for my kids.

I want my kids and grandkids to remember me. That's why I'm making sure I'll have something left to pass on to them when I'm gone. My long-term care insurance policy is helping me protect my assets. It may be in my name, but I bought it for my kids' future.

Here's what I learned.

I thought long-term care insurance was just for nursing homes. Boy, was I wrong. My Mutual of Omaha insurance agent explained how a long-term care insurance policy may actually help me stay out of a nursing home by allowing me to get the care I need right in my own home. That really got my attention. She also said that if for some reason I end up needing assisted living or nursing home care, I have coverage. That's good to know.

Then I learned something else. I figured that since I'm still young and healthy, I had plenty of time before I needed to buy a policy. I was wrong about that, too. My agent showed me how the cost of a long-term care insurance policy is based on my age, which means every year I wait, the cost goes up. But that's not all. She said if my health changed tomorrow, I might not be able to buy a policy at any price. That was a risk I wasn't willing to take.

I know this is right for me.

I live my life by doing what's right for me. So I bought a long-term care insurance policy from a company I know and trust – Mutual of Omaha Insurance Company. Maybe you've heard of them. They've been around for over 100 years, and with their history of strength and financial stability, I know they'll be here when I need them.
